

The Ring 96, Victor Cohn, Magic Estate Sale (Episode 6)

Want to learn some new magic? Want to buy some new magic? Victor Cohn, a long time member and good friend to Ring 96 has left his magic collection for us to sell. The money brought in from these sales will be split in half between Ring 96 and a kids Summer Camp that Victor liked to support. The share that Ring 96 keeps will help offset our monetary reserve which is dwindling since we are not taking in the cash flow from the raffle that we usually do. So, anything you purchase here will help support your club.

To make a purchase, e-mail Ring Secretary Cliff Gerstman at cliff37@verizon.net The "winner" of the item will be either the first one to make the request or, if you really love Ring 96, the highest bidder.

Most if not all of these items, and those to be posted in the future, are too big, or too heavy or too expensive to mail, so we will have to meet either at my house in Long Beach, or at an agreed upon location. I will be wearing a mask, please do the same.

Payment options: Prefer checks made out to "Ring 96." If that does not work for you, we can talk.

Supermentalism Deck $25

Tony Binarelli developed this effect more than 30 years ago and refined it to perfection.

A spectator is blindfolded while the mentalist asks three different persons sitting in the audience to choose three cards that are subsequently shuffled with the rest. The blindfold is removed. Without any sleight of hand, just by fanning slowly through the cards, the spectator will spot and remove the chosen cards himself from the deck.

The selections appear to be enormously increased in size for the spectator while they still look totally normal to the audience.

This unexplainable effect. comes in a "marked" red backed Phoenix Parlor Deck- Two presentations included. (stage and close-up)

This beautifully stage colored tube hides a couple of secrets that your audience will not see.

Comes with instructions.

Unlimited potential as a appearance or disappearance maker!

Paul Harris' Strange Travelers

You give her ten of the cards to hold.

You now have her just think of one of the remaining ten cards. She never says a word. No one except her knows what card she's thinking of.

These ten cards are counted again. Strangely... there are now only nine. The one card she'd been thinking of has vanished! She's still only thinking of her card; it's never been named out loud!

She counts the other ten cards she's been holding; ten cards you haven't touched since the beginning.

But now she has eleven cards! The strange traveler has arrived... her thought-of card is now staring her in

Shawn Farquhar's The Jealous King

It's the tale of lust and greed for the royal throne. Four cards are removed from the deck and one by one the images vanish until all four are gone. Have you ever wondered why the King of Hearts is depicted thrusting a sword through his head?

Maxi Twisto

In effect, the performer shows four Aces. The Ace of Spades-the master Ace- is openly turned face down. Now, one by one, after the packet is "twisted," the other three Aces turn face down. When the cards are dealt face up, there are now five cards-a Royal Flush!

Martin's classic effect. Even after 30 years, this is still being used by magicians across the world.

In the first two phases three blank cards and an ace are shown. A blank is placed aside facedown, and the ace is put between the other two blanks. A spectator fails to find the ace because the three cards are shown one by one to be blank, and the ace is on the table.

The third time the spectator usually guesses that the ace is on the table. But it is shown to be really a blank card, and the cards in the hand are shown to be all aces!
